COLLABORATION brings Sproul bust to life*

(UCR/Dan Lerman)

Kudos to our team for successfully installing the bust display of Robert Gordon Sproul, the first UC President, at Sproul Hall as part of an initiative to honor his legacy.

Lead Carpenter Willy Cuellar prepared the site, handled footing and rebar, and set up forms. He oversaw concrete mixing and pouring with assistance from Carpenter Dustin Gale and Sr. Maintenance Worker Jesse Guzman. Cuellar also completed the finishing work on the concrete pillar with fine cement coating and polishing. Architectural Associate Gunther Lind designed the site.

Armando Maravilla, Juan Hernandez Rojas, Richard Bado, Emiliano Benitez, Jose Lopez, and Marco Velasquez from Landscape Services added plantings and ground cover.

Groundskeeper Armando Maravilla and HVAC Mechanic Louis Paul aided in moving and setting the bust, highlighting this collaborative effort between the grounds and maintenance teams.

FS participates in Highlander Mentor Connection

Rich Cordova, plumbing supervisor, Jennifer Seeley, quality assurance services specialist, and Alan Siero, assistant director of systems administration and client support, recently participated as mentees in UCR's Highlander Mentor Connection, or HMC, a staff-focused mentorship program.

Open to all UCR staff who have completed their probationary period, the program fosters professional growth through peer-to-peer mentorship, encouraging participants to engage in regular discussions on career development, goal setting, and networking.

Participants are paired with mentors on campus, showcasing the program's flexibility. Whether seasoned or new to the university, HMC offers valuable opportunities for learning and growth.

More flowers in bloom for graduation

After a month of growth, the plants at UCR's monument signs have flourished even more. The smaller Bannockburn area was revitalized with a new planter, featuring transplanted Agapanthus plants that have also thrived in their new environment.
